Honest Footwear.

Every shoe in this store is an honest shoe. We look out for quality before we think of price. We are in a position to get just the sort of shoes we want, and are often in a position to dictate the price. We often find makers who are anxious to get hold of some cold cash and will let us have shoes at much lower prices than those who have to buy on credit could secure—but price won't induce us to buy unless the shoes are absolutely right. You share all such advantages with us.

Prominent Democrats Bolting the Nominees.

Senator Gray of Delaware Denounces the Chicago Platform.

Election of the Democratic Candidates Would Be a Calamity.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 13. Senator George Gray, who was a delegate to the Democratic national convention, and who did not vote on any ballot, was today asked his views upon the platform and nomination of Bryan for President. "The financial plank of the platform," said he, "is contrary to all my beliefs and to what I consider sound Democracy. I cannot change these beliefs even at the bidding of a Democratic national convention. Convictions cannot be compromised. The Delaware Democracy is distinct from the national Democracy and it is too early to say what its course will be. The Democracy in this State has always had and is likely to continue to have a strong sympathy with that of New York, New Jersey and Maryland."

Prominent New York Democrat Bolts.

NEW YORK, July 13. City Comptroller Ashbel B. Fitch (Dem.) announced this afternoon that he would not support the nominees of the Chicago convention. Mr. Fitch stated that he had served four years in Congress with candidate Bryan, knew both the men and principles, and had listened for seven years to the silver arguments of the westerners.

"They have a hatred of the city in which I live and abuse men in both parties for whom I have had life-long respect," said Mr. Fitch. "The result of a careful personal study of them, their theories and methods, is a sincere belief on my part that no more serious calamity could befall the country than their election to power. The platform is not Democratic, the candidate is not a Democrat.

"He said openly that no power on earth or in heaven could induce him to vote for a gold standard Democrat, thereby notifying those of us who believe in the gold standard that if our friends were in a majority in the convention he would decline to be bound by its action. He and his friends who have put him in nomination have no claim upon the loyalty of any Democrat."

MANY LIVES LOST,

It is Believed, by an Explosion on Cuban Railway.

HAVANA, July 13. At 8 this morning an explosion occurred on the railway between Cidra and Sabilla, province of Matanzas.

A passenger train that was passing was badly damaged and it is believed many persons were killed.

Details are hard to obtain, as the government is seeking to minimize its results.

FIRE RECORD.

A Blaze at Lowell, Mass., Monday.

LOWELL, Mass., July 13. At 8 10 this morning fire broke out in a shed near the corner of Merrimack and Tremont streets. The flames spread to and destroyed the restaurant of Mrs. James J. Vinnig, and a one story building occupied by J. D. Hartwell, a grocer, was slightly damaged. Two tenement blocks in the rear of Hartwell's store next caught, but the firemen soon had the flames under control, though at one time the whole corner was threatened. Loss $2,000.

Making Great Ravages in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13. The ravages of the army worms in East Hartford are so great that many farmers cut their hay in the meadows yesterday. All the crop will be cut this week to escape the pests. The worms are working northward. The loss so far is about one-third of the entire crop.

SOME TRUTH

But Considerable of a Nightmare Idea in This Editorial.

TORONTO, Ont., July 13. The World, conservative, today editorially referring to the national Democratic party says it is somewhat pleased at the recent demonstration "of this horse thief and repudiationist party. This time their dishonest and thievish intentions are directed against the United States. Great Britain need no longer lose any sleep over the threats of the Americans. They carry within themselves the germs of self-destruction. The republic is honeycombed with presidential microbes."

The Democratic party, it says, contains the scum of the nation and the United States, it declares, is on the verge of disruption. "Within twenty years one may see the octopus split up into two or even three republics and then there will be so much fighting among themselves that they will have no desire to twist the lion's tail or infuriate the Canadian beaver."

CLEVELAND DENOUNCED

At Christian Endeavor Armenian Demonstration.

Tremendous Outburst of Approbation of Scathing Arraignment.

Spontaneous and Enthusiastic Uprising of the Big Audience.

WASHINGTON, July 13. In the Christian Endeavor Armenian demonstration in the tent at Washington today, Evangelist Mills described the brilliancy and cunning of the Sultan, showing him to be a man of great ability, and then said: "I have no doubt these massacres in Armenia were planned and carried out by the Sultan for his own purpose." Mr. Mills laid the blame for the atrocities at the door of the Christian nations. He declared that England stood perjured today before God and the nations for her failure to prevent them.

"England," he said, "who held up her hand and swore to protect the Turkish Christians has broken her vows, and the blood of those who died in Armenia is upon her hands." (Great cheering). He showed that responsibility rested upon the government of the United States. She had more direct cause than England to interfere, yet she scarcely asked for an apology. "Nay, her minister has even warned the American missionaries to get out of Turkey, as he should not be able to protect them." (Hisses). "How glorious was their answer to our faltering minister: 'We will stay here and die with our people.'" (Applause and hisses).

He explained how the British ambassador had extended protection to the missionaries so they were allowed to continue their work unmolested. "That was the only reason they were not slaughtered," he said. "Had our noble President, on one of his fishing excursions, wandered into Turkish domains, and had so much as a tiny little bullet from a Turkish play pistol passed through his sail, Americans would have found it was some of our business to interfere in Turkish affairs." (Great applause and laughter).

"I charge the government of the United States with misrepresentation of the enlightened sentiment of the American people in this Armenian question. The President of the United States, Secretary of State and American minister have disregarded our broken treaties; they have permitted American lives to be endangered; they have permitted American property to be destroyed without reparation and American citizens to be imprisoned.

"Our government has stirred the passions of the American people to anger against England on the thousandth part of a pretext that would have sufficed for a destructive war with Turkey. The administration officers have turned a deaf and almost scornful ear to the entreaties and representations of some of our best citizens, missionaries, churches and moral societies. I denounce their conduct as unpatriotic, uncivil, un-Democratic, un-Republican, un-American, un-Christian, selfish, weak, wicked, barbaric and criminal, in the eyes of the American people and of God, and all men."

Every word almost of the last two sentences of Mr. Mills was greeted by a loud cheer. Men and women on the platform behind him and in the benches before him, rose and shouted hearty approval of the denunciation of President Cleveland. In the midst of the solemn charge of cowardice and disloyalty levelled at their chief executive, the Secretary of State and Turkish Minister, the whole audience rose spontaneously, waving flags and banners and crying aloud their approval.

At the end of the speech six rousing cheers of applause were given.

Rev. Wayland Holt, who presided, arose in his seat beside the speaker and called upon the audience to reaffirm the charge. Again came the six cheers, with hearty enthusiasm. "I hope that response will echo through the empty White House and extend to Buzzard's Bay," cried Mr. Mills as he took his seat.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Prof. Walker Talks on Bi-Metallism.

LONDON, July 13. At a meeting of the bi-metallic league to-day an address was delivered by Prof. Francis A. Walker, the American political economist and superintendent of the census of the United States of 1870 and 1880. Prof. Walker was frequently interrupted by bursts of cheers. He declared that no gold monometallist party existed in the United States and said he would stake his honor that if a bi-metallic convention was proposed in the United States by the principal sound money men of Europe, the Americans would tumble head over heels in welcoming the proposal.

Senator Gray, Professor Walker said, would find very few men to join him in opposition to the proposal for a common ratio between gold and silver. What the silverites really desired, he continued, was silver inflation. Widely separated from these men were the real bi-metallists of the United States.

Nothing, Prof. Walker declared, could be more unfounded than to say that the Republican national convention held in St. Louis had pronounced in favor of gold mono-metallism. Mr. McKinley, he said, had never been a gold monometallist; he could not be one if he tried. He had always been uniformly a bi-metallist.

The maintenance of the gold standard in the United States was not rendered a whit less secure by reason of anything done at the convention held in Chicago. Despite much friendly advice from this side of the ocean, the United States were not going to pull our people's chestnut out of the fire and would remain devoted to the rehabilitation of silver as money metal and was always ready to make sacrifices to that end. Bonds of the United States, he added, would continue to be paid in gold or its equivalent and the credit of the United States would continue to be as high as it has ever been since she had triumphantly vindicated her nationality in the war of secession. Prof. Walker was vociferously cheered as he resumed his seat at the close of his address.

QUAY IS CHAIRMAN

And Osborne Secretary of the Republican Executive Committee.

CLEVELAND, O., July 13. After nearly a month of careful consideration, Chairman Hanna of the Republican national committee has named the executive committeemen. The list contains the names of Mr. Hanna, Chairman, M. S. Quay, Pennsylvania; J. H. Manley, Maine; H. C. Payne, Wisconsin; Cyrus Leland, Kansas; Powell Clayton, Arkansas; C. G. Dawes, Illinois; W. T. Durbin, Indiana; N. B. Scott, West Virginia.

Wm. H. Osborne, of Boston, is made secretary of the committee and J. A. Dick, of this city, assistant secretary. The committee will meet in this city Wednesday.

Mr. Hanna said: "We think that the western and southern States are debatable ground and we shall go into the contest with that idea. The Dakotas should go Republican, Nebraska should be Republican and the same is true of Alabama and Louisiana."

	$1,950

The incomes of the church bequests are to be expended for the purchase of Sunday school books.

Mrs. Chadwick gave $2,500 to her adopted daughter, Mrs. J. P. Moore, of Bangor, and to Percy C. Moore she bequeathed her homestead on Ohio street and $500 in money to be expended in repairing the premises, and also $1,000 in money and a gold watch formerly the property of Mrs. Chadwick's husband. Mrs. Moore also receives $500 for a special purpose.

To Marianna Cook, niece, of Portland, $1,500 is given.

To Mrs. Chadwick's niece, Mrs. Grace B. Moreland, of New York, $500 is bequeathed.

Mrs. Agnes Hannaford, of Portland, another niece, receives $500.

To each of the four sons of Mrs. Chadwick's brother, John H. Clark, Wilmot, Louis, Alfred and John, of Portland, is given $200.

Mrs. Augusta Bunker, of Brewer, and Mrs. Sarah Sterling, of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Elizabeth Sterling, of Dover, N. H., nieces, received $100 each.

Miss Lucy Whitehouse and Miss Mehitable Twombly, of Dover, N. H., receive $50 each, and the following are also named in the will: Sarah Chadwick Pierce, Bangor, $100; John, Henry, Otis and Florence, (other children of City Treasurer), $50 each; Mrs. Agnes MacMahon, Brewer, $100; Eva Pickard, (daughter of the late Dr. Pickard, Carmel), $100.

Mrs. J. P. Moore also receives the furniture and personal apparel and jewelry, which are to be disposed of according to Mrs. Chadwick's directions given before her death.

Mrs. Moore is also made the residuary legatee.

Hon. E. B. Nealley is the executor of the will.

A codicil modifies one of the public bequests. This codicil takes $300 from the legacy originally made for Grace church, and gives it to Mr. J. P. Moore, of Bangor, Mrs. Chadwick's son-in-law, "in token of his uniform kindness to me" as the will reads.

The will was executed on February 25, 1892, and the codicil was added on June 14th, 1893.

A Fine Farm.

Mr. G. W. Spratt recently took a carriage drive including several of the towns of this and Piscataquis county. He reports the general condition of the crops as excellent and says the farmers are bound to get a great yield this fall. Mr. Spratt visited the farm of Hon. John Morrison, of Corinth, and with that splendid hospitality for which Mr. Morrison is noted, he insisted that his old friend should put his horse in the barn and tarry for a time. Mr. Spratt gladly accepted the invitation and enjoyed a tour about the farm. Mr. Morrison mows fifty acres of grass and will house from 125 to 150 tons of new hay. He has two and one-half acres of beans, ten acres of other "hoeing" crops, and twenty acres of grain. Among his livestock he has twelve cows and six splendid calves, Hereford and Durham cross, and six fine horses. He wintered ten old hogs which Mr. Spratt says cannot be beaten, and has forty tons of old hay on hand. Mr. Morrison's son is now building a fine new house just across the road from the family residence.

By the Confession of Highwaymen—The "Long and Short" Men Captured.

CHICAGO, July 13. The "Long and Short Men," who have figured so conspicuously in the recent series of daring hold-ups, were arrested last night. The "short" man has made a complete confession, which has startled the Chicago police. He is Douglass Clendenning, son of William Clendenning, a Montreal banker, who failed a short time ago.

The "long" man is said to be "Red" Collins. Clendenning's confession, it is said, included the names of his active and silent partners. The police are now working on his information and the rounding up of crooks is being made in earnest.

Drove Over a Bank

James Goodwin and Bert Stevens took Nellie and Lottie Inman to drive last evening and late in the evening met with an accident in going down Kossuth street in Cottageville. They got off the road and went over the bank into a gravel pit 20 feet below. The horse, people and vehicle were piled up in great confusion. When they had gotten out it was found that Miss Nellie Inman's leg was broken, the others were somewhat bruised and the carriage was smashed to pieces. The horse was not much injured. The police ambulance was called and Capt. Fahey and Officer O'Leary took the injured girl to her home near the old race track.

Will be Strong for Sound Money.

A Bangor gentleman has received a letter from a prominent official of one of the leading railroads of Michigan in which he writes as follows:

Crops are being harvested and promise excellent results if business conditions will only improve. Michigan has a strong silver sentiment, but a ready, even before adjournment of the mob of Populists and fanatics at Chicago, the people are beginning to take the sober second thought. The educational process is at work and you will find our State strong for sound money in November.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

THE Royal Baking Powder makes sweeter, lighter, finer-flavored and more wholesome bread, biscuit and cake than any other leavening agent. It is of higher strength, and therefore more economical. All government and scientific tests show that as a leavening agent it is actually without an equal.

Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.—U. S. Gov't Chemist's Report.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The Republican voters of the City of Bangor will meet at the polling places in their several Wards on Tuesday, July 21st, 1896, at seven o'clock P. M. to elect delegates to a convention to nominate three candidates for the Legislature to be supported at the State election to be held in September. The polls will be kept open till eight o'clock and the basis of representation will be as follows: Each Ward will be entitled to one delegate for every forty votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1894 and an additional delegate for a fraction of fifteen or more votes. The several Wards will be entitled to the following delegates: Ward 1, two (2); Ward 2, five (5); Ward 3, ten (10); Ward 4, seven (7); Ward 5, eight (8); Ward 6, seven (7); and Ward 7, six (6).

Each Ward will organize with a Chairman and Secretary and at the closing of the polls will bring a certificate of the credentials of delegates elected to the City Hall, to the City Committee, which will be in session at eight o'clock.

The delegates elected will assemble in City Hall at eight thirty o'clock the same evening and proceed to nominate the three candidates for the Legislature.

Representative Caucuses

We publish this morning the call of the Republican City Committee for the caucuses to nominate candidates for Representatives to the Legislature. It will be seen that the caucus system has been changed from the old general caucus to ward primaries. This change has been adopted in accordance with a petition to the City Committee signed by more than six hundred Republican voters, including many of the leading business men of the city.

For a long time the opinion has prevailed that Bangor had outgrown the general caucus system. This feeling became a settled conviction last spring when the new City Hall was crowded by nearly fifteen hundred persons who were struggling for some forty minutes for the privilege of voting for one or the other of the candidates. Men stated at the time that they would not attend another general caucus and subject themselves to the discomfort experienced on that occasion, especially as it was unnecessary. It was also argued that with such a number of men crowded together in that way it was impossible to distinguish Democrats from Republicans, the result being that any man whether a member of the party or not, could participate in the selection of candidates.

With this feeling so pronounced in the community petitions were placed in circulation for Republican signatures praying the City Committee, which has full control in the matter, to substitute ward primaries for the general caucus. These papers were signed by every man to whom they were presented, with some three or four exceptions until the signers numbered as stated above over six hundred. These petitions were laid before the City Committee at a regular meeting Monday evening and after a discussion pro and con the change asked for was made. The vote of the committee stood four in favor to three opposed. The opponents were very pronounced in their determination to prevent the adoption of the new system and the regular secretary declined to sign the call. Of course the individual action of one member could not nullify the deliberate action of the majority and in view of his refusal to sign the committee elected a secretary pro tem.

The call appears in the columns of THE WHIG this morning and should be carefully read by all Republicans who should arrange to be present at the ward primaries next Tuesday evening. It will be seen that under the new system each ward will be entitled to a certain number of delegates based on the Republican vote in such ward cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in the election of 1894. It is the safest and fairest way of securing an expression of Republican preferences in the matter of candidates. It is practically in accord with the system now in vogue for the election of delegates to State, District and County conventions, the only difference being that the delegates instead of being equally divided among the wards are apportioned in accordance with the Republican vote, so that the strong Republican wards exercise a greater influence than the wards in which the Republicans are in the minority. We believe the system after given a fair trial will prove satisfactory to all Republican voters.

Now a word relative to the opposition in the committee. The minority declined to recognize the will of the majority and prepared another call for a general caucus. This call was offered to THE WHIG after the legally signed call of the majority, signed by the Chairman and secretary of the meeting had been handed into this office for publication. Of course we could not accept the minority call. THE WHIG looks to the City Committee for these matters and publishes the caucus calls free of charge. The committee has full authority to determine the method, time and place of holding caucuses. This is not only a matter of precedent, but the authority of the committee is sustained by well-known legal talent. On any division of opinion the majority of the committee, as in all other bodies, must determine the action of the committee. The majority of the committee in this case voted for the change and authorized the call which appears this morning. It therefore stands as a matter of course that it is the only call THE WHIG can recognize. Any [illegible] would lead to endless confusion. The City Committee is elected [illegible] all [illegible] the [illegible] who have called the [illegible] Tuesday evening [illegible] man or set of men. The Republicans can select the men of their choice to represent them at Augusta. The polling places will be held open for an hour so that every voter will have ample opportunity to go to the ward primary and vote for whomever he pleases without the discomfort consequent upon the general caucus. More than that the check list can be used if desired so that the expression of sentiment may be absolutely confined to the Republicans. Upon mature reflection it will be seen that there is no good reason for objection to the new system on the score of safety, fairness or comfort. One candidate stands on equal footing with every other candidate and it simply remains for the Republican voters to decide between them.

Represents Anarchy and Not Law.

In an editorial discussing the Chicago convention and its results the New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle gives voice to the following sentiments that will be approved by the sound business judgment of the American people:

The Silverites and Populists at Chicago have joined hands and captured the Democratic organization. Under the leadership of Altgeld, Tillman and the like a revolutionary platform has been adopted, and a man put in nomination not a whit less populistic in his views than the persons named above, and one who if he secured the object of his ambition would be a willing tool in their hands. No one is consequently permitted to doubt that the success of this new crusade means even more than silver monometallism with its attendant wrongs and evils. It means an utter disregard of all property rights. It means anarchists' operations legalized. It means the promoting of riots like that in Chicago in 1894. In brief, the men who have been the leaders in this movement, and who would dominate an administration which might be elected through it, represent anarchy and not law. Their love for free silver is because it would lead to industrial confusion, the best condition for the development of the germs of social and political confusion, the atmosphere of the anarchist.

We have no fear that the combination will succeed, and that, beyond a doubt, is the prevailing sentiment. There are many and good reasons for this opinion. Prominent among these is the fact that the Republican party has always been in the majority since 1860, except on two occasions, and those were when the Democrats secured the large independent vote. This year the independent vote is almost to a man against the new party—we have yet to meet one who will vote with it. Moreover, there will be fewer stragglers among the Republicans in November than usual because there never was a year when all the conditions at the opening of the canvass seemed so clearly to point towards a great success for that party as now, and these prospects will become brighter as the day for the election draws near. Men are no more likely to desert a party than they are any army in the moment of its victory.

Another substantial reason for this view is that business classes all over the country are, with a degree of unanimity scarcely ever reached, against the free coinage of silver, [illegible] too will [illegible] these people become better acquainted with the Populistic character of the platform adopted by the Convention and the character of the men who have directed its action, for honest merchants, bankers and others engaged in enterprises of various kinds cannot favor even a suspicion of anarchy. Besides, the branch of the Democratic party which has favored gold money, not only in the Eastern and Middle States, but in the Western and Southern as well—and there are many more of them in the South and West than most people think—cannot vote with the Silver party for a difference in moral tone as well as with reference to an economic principle separates them, than which no difference could be broader. This feeling of opposition, too, will most likely be found to have been deepened and to have become more intense by reason of the discourteous treatment the sound money men who went to Chicago have received, and by the circumstance that the Silverites and Populists have ridden roughshod over the leading rules and traditions hitherto controlling Democratic conventions.

We might mention other reasons for belief in the success of the Republican party at the coming election, but we have given enough for this occasion. What we have said on that point has been said largely as preliminary to another thought. We desire to urge upon every one among our readers who thinks as we do to work and vote directly for gold money to help swell the majority which already seems assured. What is needed now is not simply to elect the Republican candidate for President and to elect none but sound money men for members of Congress, but to give such an overwhelming vote against the silver and anarchists' party as to close and settle forever this free silver coinage agitation in the United States.

We can have no business prosperity so long as our industries are laboring under this incubus. The weaker men in trade are all the time becoming exhausted under the strain, and are month after month dropping out in large numbers from the ranks of those engaged in active business, and will drop out in much larger numbers if the agitation and consequent strain is continued much longer. For it is this heavy and oppressive burden which has so long prevented the free use of the country's faculties, and it will exercise the same influence until the world has evidence that the spirit of the country is undoubtedly opposed to it and is so thoroughly aroused to a sense of the evil as to be ready to work for its complete correction.

We never meddle with politics. We have likewise always been careful to avoid as far as practicable the discussion of subjects in these columns during election periods which have become through convention platforms matters of chief difference between parties. But there is something much higher than mere politics at issue now. Something higher is involved than even business interests or material interests of any kind. As we said last week and shall most likely say many times again during the next two or three months—national honor and the principle of individual honesty as well as industrial safety are staked in the contest.

When a party declares for the free coinage of silver by the United States alone, it declares for silver monometallism for free coinage by this country alone could not be adopted without at once bring the country to a silver standard. When the same party declares its opposition to the issue of bonds to buy gold to keep silver at a parity with gold, it virtually says, in the light of existing facts we intend to get the currency down to a silver basis as speedily as possible and keep it there, in other words, by such avowals silver monometallism is evoked and espoused as directly and positively as words could do it. That being so, those who favor that policy are seeking to confiscate one half of every individual's savings except those of the rich, whose property and securities are of a nature not to be affected except in small measure. We need not ask is that honest. There is no man with any conscience left but will answer it is not.

Again, those among the advocates of such a system who are in debt subject themselves to the imputation of intending to force their creditor to take fifty cents on a dollar in payment. That might be made legal—but would it be right? So it might be made legal to pay the United States debt with silver according to one of the threats the platform contains. But Congress having many times said that "coin" meant gold, and all our outstanding bonds having been negotiated on that basis, would it be honorable to force silver upon the holders? And yet the intention of these people as declared in their platform can have no other meaning.

These matters cover only one phase of that document—we might say not the worst. Do our people wish to legalize riots? The platform virtually does it. The Illinois Governor could not have more clearly defied law and order and put his mark upon that instrument than has been done by the section in it "denouncing arbitrary interference by Federal authorities in local affairs," etc. His acts and statements during the Chicago riots are the clearest and only interpretation of that clause. We mistake the temper of the people of Illinois if they do not again, as they did at the last election, express themselves emphatically on that subject. And if there is a man in this country who can run away and not vote when such an issue as that confronts him, he must have a curious idea of his duty.

But we must stop for to-day. We shall refer to these subjects many times again during the coming two or three months.

Further Details of the Terrible Disaster in Japan.

30,000 People Killed, 75,000 Injured and 12,000 Houses Wrecked.

San Francisco, Cal. July 13.—The Tokio correspondent of the United Press writing under the date of June 26, describing the devastation wrought by the seismic wave on June 10, says that at half past eight o'clock in the evening the wave struck the northeast coast of the main island, throughout a distance of about 200 miles and in five minutes 30,000 people were killed, 75,000 injured and 12,000 houses destroyed. From the island of Kinka San on the south to Hachinohe in the north the coast of Rikuzen and Rikushu province assumes a complex shape. Throughout the whole of the bow-like area nearly every town and every village was visited by the wave. The portion between Motoyoshi and Yamada suffered most severely. The general direction of the wave appears to have been north by east for after carrying devastation to the shore of the main island it left Yezo on the west, touches the island Yemmo Cape only.

Inhabitants of numerous towns and hamlets along the coast were celebrating the boys festival. There is much of [illegible] in claiming accounts [illegible] as to the phenomena that preceded the final catastrophe. Several accounts agree that at about 7 o'clock three or four shocks of earthquake were felt, not violent, though of the vertical kind that folks in Japan dread.

The barometer gave no indication of anything unusual. Some 20 or 25 minutes later a booming sound became audible from the direction of the sea. It appears to have been variously interpreted. Some construed it as the noise of a coming gale, others supposed that a huge school of sardines had reached the offing. Only a very few suspected the real significance of the sound and fled inland. [illegible] of their speed. Rapidly the noise increased until it assumed the volume and [illegible] of a great park of artillery and then in a moment waves 50 to 20 or 30 feet high were thundering against the shore.

Of the three prefectures visited by the wave Iwate had by far the largest aggregate of disasters, its list [illegible] amounting to 26,000. At Kamaishi, a little seaside town, three walls of water rushed forward and in less than two minutes the town was virtually annihilated. Out of 1,223 dwellings only 143 remained standing, and out of a population of 6,577 death had overtaken 4,000 and 500 lay wounded. In completeness of desolation this record heads the list. [illegible] the waves was however [illegible] telling at several other points.

Such are the tales of death and ruin [illegible] from [illegible] the [illegible] totals at this moment of writing being 26,073 killed, 7,487 wounded and 7,811 houses washed away or wrecked. In the prefecture of Iwate was [illegible] villages on the coast which were visited by the wave 25,413 persons were killed and 6,774 wounded out of a total population of 104,771, so that out of every three inhabitants one was killed or wounded.

It is difficult yet to say whether males or females preponderate among the victims. Statistics from Miyagi prefecture show that out of 1,475 [illegible] twenty villages 876 were males and [illegible]. On the other hand a traveller passing through the two hamlets [illegible] and Sunakoro the day after the disaster saw only thirty young men there. [illegible] visible.

The scenes presented by the devastated districts is shocking. Along the [illegible] the timbers of wrecked houses lie in piles upon each other. [illegible] though that sheltered [illegible] few days ago [illegible] stand [illegible] skeletons [illegible] wounded from their conditions [illegible] however [illegible]

Fourth of July Celebration at Honolulu

Honolulu via San Francisco, July 13.—As the celebrations of American Independence and the first anniversary of the establishment of the republic of Hawaii fell on July 4, the American residents and Hawaiian citizens united in a joint celebration on last Saturday which far surpassed any affair of the kind ever held before.

A marked feature of the event was the participation of many native Hawaiians and the general friendly feeling displayed by the natives during the day.

Ogden Goelit Dangerously Ill

Cowes, July 13.—Ogden Goelet of New York is lying dangerously ill on board the yacht White Lady which is anchored in Cowes Harbor.

Vessels Lost but Crews Saved

Nassau, N. P., July 13.—The American bark Eliza T. McMenemy from Philadelphia for Pensacola and from the latter port June 27 for Rio Janeiro, lumber laden, stranded near Memory Rock on the night of July 5. The vessel and cargo were lost. The crew and materials were saved.

The American schooner Henry C. Woodruff from Wilmington, N. C., for Port Au Prince with a general cargo stranded on Powell's reef, Abaco, on the morning of July 6. The vessel was lost but her crew and part of her material were saved and have arrived here.

HEAVY SHORTAGE

Shown in Books of Window Class Workers.

New York, July 13.—A Pittsburg special says: Sensational disclosures were made Saturday at the convention of window glass workers by the reading of the report of the expert accountant who has been auditing the books. The examination covered the period from 1882 until the present time. Of $383,000 alleged to have been paid out from April 16, 1892 to Sept. 12, 1895 only $39,700 can be accounted for. The auditors found one deficiency of $15,000 and $7,000 more not accounted for. The accounts had been so manipulated on the books that large sums entirely disappeared.

SENATOR HILL

Will Consult with Sound Money Democrats.

New York, July 13.—The Sun says: Senator Hill will be in this city today. Either here or at Long Branch he will meet and consult with representative sound money Democrats as to the course which should be followed by those members of the party who are willing to accept the principles laid down in the Chicago platform and represented by the Chicago nominees.

Among those who will participate in the conference, it is said, are William C. Whitney, United States Senators Gray of Delaware, Smith of New Jersey, Gorman of Maryland and Brice of Ohio.

Whatever course is to be decided on, it is understood that an early meeting of the Democratic state committee will be called to carry the plan into effect.

THE COTTON MILLS.

Large Number of Spindles Idle in the South.

Fall River, Mass., July 13.—Secretary Rainesville of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers association has received a letter from a southern cotton manufacturer in which the writer states that 1,913,000 out of a total of 2,500,000 spindles in the south have agreed to shut down 38½ per cent of the time between July and October.

BASE BALL.

Western Association to Declare an "Off Year"

Chicago, July 13.—A special from Quincy, Ill., says: "Although the truth is being carefully kept from the public, it is a fact that several of the base ball clubs composing the western association have agreed through the mails to quit within the next week or so, and declare this an off year. Managers deny this report, as they are desirous of selling their best men before letting go.

Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sallow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is more than skin deep. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is not a thing by itself, and skin diseases are frequently not skin diseases at all. All the lotions and bleaches and creams and powders in the world won't make a good complexion if the digestion is wrong. If the stomach is sour, and the liver torpid, and the bowels constipated, the skin will show it. No use trying to treat the skin for such a condition. The only way to relieve it is to cleanse the system and purify the blood. As long as the heart is pumping impurities to every part of the body, just so long these impurities will show through the skin.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it makes the whole body healthy—because it clears and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkles and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It isn't a miracle. It is merely the result of a combination of rational; natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp, simply because all these diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered digestion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure you, if suffering from diseases named above.

If you want to know hundreds of great medical truths, send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and we will send you FREE a copy of Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser." Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Lewis Pollister is enjoying a vacation and goes to Boston to-day for a stay.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Farrington have been spending a few days at Sandy Point.

The schooner Eagle has been discharging a cargo of sulphur at the pulp mill at South Brewer.

Miss Fannie Claphan and Miss Etta Saunders are visiting friends in Benton, N. B., for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Spurling have returned home from a visit of a few weeks at South West Harbor.

Mrs. D. C. Gardner and Miss May Cornish, of Plymouth, Mass., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hall.

Miss Josephine Crosby has returned home from a visit with friends in the neighboring town of Orrington.

Mrs. Flora Sawyer, of Lynn, Mass., is in the city, called here by the illness of her father, Mr. Samuel Deering.

Mr. J. F. Knowlton, clerk of courts of Ellsworth, was in the city yesterday, the guest of Rev. J. T. Crosby.

Misses Edith and Bessie Pickard, of Guilford, are visiting their cousin, Miss Alice Hodgkins, on Spring street.

The big four-masted schooner John F. Randall has been taking a cargo of ice at the houses of the Arctic Ice Co.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gould returned home yesterday morning on the steamer Sedgwick from a stay at Castine.

Mr William Merrill is enjoying a vacation and with his family will go to Greene Lake to-day, for a few days' stay.

Mr. Roscoe Lufkin, of East Orrington, has purchased the Kent house on Main street at South Brewer, which was badly damaged by fire a few years ago, and has a crew of men repairing it.

Mr. William F. Boynton, of this city, died at his home on Parker street yesterday after a number of years of failing health and a protracted illness. He was 86 years, 4 months and 21 days of age and was a well known citizen, having been a prominent contractor and builder in his younger days. He leaves one daughter, Miss Mary Boynton.

The excursion from this city to Camden on the steamer Sedgwick next Thursday, under the auspices of Brewer Lodge of Workmen, will be for members of the lodge and their friends. Ample time will be afforded, and special electric cars will be in waiting to carry all who wish to Rockland and Thomaston. The Bangor band will accompany the excursion. The boat will leave Free Soil wharf at 7.30 A. M.

THE WAY AND THE GUIDE.

The way I knew not thou hast led, and oft
It seemed a darksome way and hard to tread,
And leading downward rather than aloft
Appeared the way by which the Father led.

But yet I followed, knowing not the way,
Though still assured, because the guide I knew,
And waiting till the radiance of the day
Should break, illumed with heaven painted hue.

And, lo! the glowing morn has burst at last,
More brilliant e'en than hope could paint its life.
That light is clearest which leaves darkness past,
That peace most peaceful which is born of strife.

MYSTERY OF A MAINE ISLAND.

A Hermit Englishman Who Ended His Misery by Cutting His Throat.

"Some years ago, up at North Haven Island, on the Maine coast," said a New Yorker, "I came across a mystery that haunts me still. A bare, rocky point juts out into the sea on one side of the island, and the first year that I visited the place there was a rude cabin on the rock. Having gone out there from curiosity one day I found a man in shameful rags trying out the oil from the refuse from a fish canning factory. When I came to examine the man his appearance astonished me. He was an extremely handsome, well made Englishman of 40 or thereabout. His hands, soiled with the material he worked in, were small and well shaped. When I tried to draw him into conversation he at first answered in monosyllables, and was almost sulky in his reserve. He gradually thawed, however, and I found that he spoke rare and beautiful English, that of a well-read and well bred man. Glancing into the door of his cabin I could see perhaps a score of well thumbed volumes in library binding. His reserve was such that I could not ask him about himself, but I left the island deeply interested in him.

"I turned up at North Haven the next year, and one of the earliest things I did was to go out to the point in search of my acquaintance. The rock was bare again, and there was no trace of him or his cottage. I asked about him of some persons I met on the island, and here is what I learned: He had come to the place mysteriously some years before, having been dropped by a schooner. He found work at the fish cannery, but later quit the place, built his cabin on the rock, supplied himself with food chiefly by fishing, and obtained from the factory the privilege of trying oil from the refuse. From the product he obtained a little ready money for tobacco and other luxuries. At some time between my two visits his cabin was discovered to be on fire late one night, and, hurrying down, his neighbors saw him amid the flames dead, with his throat cut. The fire had so seized upon the hut that his body could not be removed until it was nearly consumed. He was buried, and no solution of the mystery was discovered. Life had evidently become insupportable to him, and he had taken the way of suicide as the easiest one out of misery."—New York Sun.

ONE FIEND TOO MANY.

And His Presence Disturbed the Audience Not Less Than the Actors.

Up to the year 1740 there seems to have been no regular and permanent theater in Scotland. In that year the foundation stone of the Canongate theater was laid by Mr. Lacy Ryan of the Covent Garden theater, London. At the prices then customary (viz., 2s. 6d., 1s. 6. and 1s.) a full house was worth from £60 to £65. On special occasions, such as the benefit of a popular actor, as much as £70 was taken, but only by admitting spectators to the wings and even to the stage itself. Sometimes the stage was so crowded in this way that the actors had not sufficient room to carry out their "business" properly, and, if engaged in a duel, had to shorten their lunges for fear of pinking a patron. It is to the credit of Garrick that he was the first to set his face against this abuse and to close the stage door even to a prince of the blood.

Those were days in which every theater led a precarious existence. Actors were barely tolerated. They were, legally, "vagabonds." Their profession was considered immoral, not only by the great bulk of the public, but, in a way, by themselves. A curious illustration of this had been afforded a little while before at a theater in London. In a play called "The Sorcerer" (titles repeat themselves) a dance of fiends was to be performed. They were masked and dressed in the usual manner, with all the Dantesque accessories to make them terrible. They were 13 in number. But, in the midst of their performance, they discovered to their horror that a thirteenth had joined himself to them. This was too much for the actors.

Conscious of the fact that they were considered by most men fit candidates for the special attentions of the arch fiend, they fled in all directions before the unwelcome visitor, if haply they might yet escape the destruction which they believed was coming upon them. Owing to this general stampede, the supernumerary devil was never unmasked. But when the panic was over, it was remembered that there were thirteen infernal imps, which might have been assumed for the occasion by some practical joker. At the time, however, the direct interposition of Satan was firmly believed by the actors and the audience. The actors fled; the spectators dispersed to carry to their homes the tidings of this terrible event. And so profoundly did it affect the imagination [illegible] of the spectators [illegible]

THE DEMOCRATIC BOLT.

Federal Office Holders Denounce The Chicago Platform.

Senator Palmer Says Illinois Will Bolt Ticket.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 13.—A party of ten men, all but two of whom are Democratic government officeholders, left last night on a trip up the lakes on the yacht Arcadia. Postmaster General Wilson will join the party at Detroit. Among the gentlemen aboard the yacht were; W. H. Bellman, chief clerk of the delivery department at Washington; A. W. Machin, superintendent of the free delivery department; Judge Lorense, of the court of claims, Washington; A. F. Cushing, superintendent of the house to house delivery department; Postmaster H. N. Baker, of Buffalo; Postmaster J. C. Hutchins, of Cleveland, and Postmaster John Enright, of Detroit.

Judge Lorense was the first man approached by a reporter with the question of what he thought of the Democratic platform.

He denounced it. "Can't we get rid of such a platform, even on the water?" He said: "Support it? not much; it's too mean to drown, and a slight better to kick than to stand on. The candidates are all right. I don't know a thing against them, but the platform is too much."

Postmaster Baker of Buffalo, declared that he would not support the candidates of the Democratic party. He put it on the ground of the silver plank in the platform and said that the crankiness of the whole thing was too much for consistent Democrats to stand. The other anathematised the platform and their dissatisfied manner indicated clearly that the Democratic nominees have little to expect from any of them.

Postmaster Hutchins said: "William L. Wilson is not with us tonight, having been detained by something or other at Detroit. We know perfectly, however, his views. He is in accord with all of us in disapproving utterly the free silver platform of the late Democratic convention in Chicago."

Will Support Neither Candidate or Platform

Springfield, Ills., July 13.—Senator John Palmer stated yesterday that he was carrying on an extensive correspondence with the Democrats of the state to ascertain their views as to the proper course to pursue. He did not care to predict what action would be taken until an agreement had been reached. All that he cared to say at this time was that they would not accept or support either the platform or the candidates of the Chicago convention.

Populists May Endorse Bryan.

Seattle, Wash., July 13.—Judge Richard Winsor, delegate to the national Populist convention from this state, left last night for St. Louis. He will, by reason of his standing and ability, probably head the Washington state delegation.

Judge Winsor goes at this time in order to be upon the ground early to lend assistance to the movement to have W. J. Bryan, the Democratic standard bearer, either endorsed or nominated outright by the St. Louis convention.

"As to Mr. Sewall," he said, "I hardly know what to say. It may be that the plan is to have him withdraw and a Populist named in his stead."

Kansas Silver Men and Populists Favor Bryan.

Topeka, Kan., July 13.—The state convention of the silver party to elect delegates to the national convention which meets in St. Louis next week, will be held in Topeka, Thursday, July 16. Many county conventions were held Saturday, to elect delegates to the state convention and without exception the delegates were instructed to vote for only such delegates as would favor the nomination of Bryan and Sewall. The silver men say the county conventions have as far as practicable chosen only Republicans as delegates to the state convention with the object to make the movement appear as independent of the People's and Democratic parties as possible. A number of People's party conventions were also held yesterday in different parts of the state and they, too, adopted resolutions favoring the nomination of Bryan for President. All leading Populists, including Senator Peffer, Jerry Simpson, ex-Gov. Llewellyn, John W. Briedenthal and W. A. Harris, ex-congressman at large, are favorable to the nomination or endorsement of the Democratic candidates for President and vice president of the People's party.

MARINE NEWS.

Steamer Pentagoet Floated and Towed to Vineyard Haven.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 13. Steamer Pentagoet, from New York for Eastport and St. John, N. B., which recently went ashore on Pasque Island, was floated this morning and towed here by steam tug Mercury, not so badly injured as at first supposed.

DEMOCRATIC COMPLICATIONS.

Mayor Hanson Wants to Know Which Platform Candidate Winslow Stands On.

BELFAST, July 13. Mayor Hanson, of this city, has written an open letter to Mr. Winslow, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, inquiring whether he will stand on the State gold platform or on the National silver one.

ENTIRELY UNEXPECTED.

Major Moreland Pleaded Guilty of Embezzlement.

PITTSBURG, July 13. The case of Major Moreland, ex-city attorney, who, together with his assistant, W. H. House, are charged with embezzlement of city funds and malfeasance in office, was called in court this morning. Immediately after the indictment was read Major Moreland entered a plea of guilty. This caused great excitement, as such action was entirely unexpected.

LOTS OF COMPANY.

Democrats Who Will Not Accept Chicago Platform Very Numerous.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 13. The Grand Rapids Democrat, which favored gold before the convention, accepts the platform, declares that the platform is the accepted creed of the party for this campaign, and says Democrats who do not like it can find comfort and company on the Republican side of the fence.

ACCIDENT OR SUICIDE.

Man Killed by Fall Into Well.

NORWALK, Ct., July 13. John Chichester, living on Belden Hill, either fell or threw himself into a well on his premises last night. He went in head foremost and dislocated his neck. A neighbor heard the splash and went down the well and pulled Chichester out of the water. Other help was soon at hand and both men were brought up. When Chichester was pulled out, several minutes after he fell in, he was dead. He leaves a wife and three children. The well was 24 feet deep, with four feet of water.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of a Norway House Painter.

NORWAY, July 13. George H. Small, a house painter about 60 years of age, who lived alone, was found on his door step late last night in a dying condition. He expired while being carried up stairs. The supposed cause of death is alcoholism.

CONGREGATION SURPRISED.

Democratic Clergyman Protests Against 50c Dollars and Placing Boy in President's Chair.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 13. On Sunday Rev. E. F. Aubison, rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, a prominent Democrat, astonished his congregation by closing his sermon with the words: "The present time calls for all patriots to unite to prevent further coinage of 50c dollars or the placing of a boy in the chair occupied by Washington, Lincoln and Garfield."

STEWARD BOUND OVER

For Stealing Mrs. Baxter's Diamonds.

PORTLAND, July 13. Mrs. Mary Baxter, of Boston, yesterday left her diamond rings in a stateroom on the steamer Bay State and the steward, John E. Cookson, [illegible] was before the court here this morning for stealing them. [illegible]

FIRE RECORD.

One Man Fatally Injured at Elevator Fire.

ST. LOUIS, July 13. At 2.15 this morning fire was discovered in the Merchants' Terminal Elevator at Biddle street and the Levee. When the fire department arrived the building was a mass of flames and a general alarm turned in. Assistant Chief Hines fell from a ladder and was fatally injured. John Ryan, president of the company, said the loss would be at least $50,000. The building contained thousands of bushels of wheat and this went up in smoke.

At 4.30 the firemen had the fire under control.

SAD ACCIDENT.

Seven Years Old Boy Drowned at Lewiston.

LEWISTON, July 13. Joseph Leduc, the seven-year-old son of Cosme Leduc, was drowned in the canal to-day. He was walking on a fence along the canal bank, when he lost his footing and was drowned in the presence of a score of people.

NINETEENTH SESSION

Of the Matha's Vineyard Summer Institute.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 13. The 19th session of the Martha's Vineyard Summer Institute was commenced today with an attendance of 800 teachers and other pupils from every section of the country. New departments have been added and expert instructors secured. President Mowry says the school was never on a better and more satisfactory basis.

LABOR TROUBLES

Strike of Flour Handlers at Superior, Wis.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 13. Contractor Walsh yesterday afternoon signified his refusal to arbitrate the strike of the flour handlers. Train loads of flour are filling up the yards and several boats are waiting for cargoes. The blockade, the men say, is the worst ever seen here and they estimate that it will require over 500 men for a week to straighten things out. No violence has been reported.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED.

Was Trying to Swim Faster Than Two Men Could Row.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., July 13. John Mahoney, aged 24, of Colchester, was drowned Sunday in Newton's pond, Moodus. With a party of friends he went bathing and challenged two of them for a race from shore to shore, they to row in the boat and he to swim. They started and the men in the boat on looking back saw Mahoney go under the water. Supposing he was swimming under water they finished the race. On returning they found his dead body at the bottom of the pond.

Telegraphic Notes.

Sunday afternoon a fire was seen on the Morgan wharf, Galveston, Texas, and a negro was sent to sound the alarm. This he did and on return saw three men standing by a blaze which could easily have been put out. The men ordered the negro out and he ran. By some accident a general alarm was not sounded until an hour later and a police sergeant found three flames, by each of which was a kerosene can and some matches, showing that the fire was caused by incendiarism. Owing to this discovery it is believed the $200,000 wharf fire of ten days ago was of incendiary origin. The property destroyed was a shed owned by the Morgan Steamship Company, which contained 2,000,000 yards of jute bagging.

Charles Stark, a saloon keeper, of Springfield, Ohio, Saturday shot and killed Louis Leiterman, his bar tender, and mortally wounded his wife. Stark suspected his wife and Leiterman of being on intimate terms. Stark escaped.

The United States cruiser Columbia, from Castine, arrived at Boston Sunday morning and anchored at quarantine. The Columbia is to take the Massachusetts naval militia on a cruise.

Hayden Roberts murdered his wife near Peru, Neb., Sunday, by beating her over the head with the stock of a shot gun and then shot and killed himself. Roberts was one of the oldest residents of the county and a man of some prominence. He had had frequent quarrels with his wife.

Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. will ship $375,000 gold on Tuesday's European steamers from New York. This includes $300,000 withdrawn from the sub-treasury last week, but held over.

The Boston Daily Standard has suspended publication. It was established in March of last year as the organ of the A. P. A. and was a member of the association styled "The Associated Press."

Omer Gagne, aged 17, left New Bedford Monday for Chicago. His object is to break the long distance pedestrian record and if successful he proposes to walk to San Francisco. Gagne has previously won some fame in Canada by a 650 mile jaunt.

The employees at Rice & Hutchins, Middlesex square shoe factory, Marlboro, Mass., went back to work Monday morning after two weeks of idleness.

Judge Lilley, at Salem, Mass., Monday granted a divorce to Alden B. Gardner from Sarah J. Gardner, for cruelty. The case has attracted much attention.

Frederick R. Rico, a colored employee in the city department in the general postoffice in New York city, was arrested Monday morning on the charge of having stolen from the mails. He pleaded guilty, admitting the theft of letters. He was held under $2,500 bail for examination.

A telegram was received at the War Department Monday, announcing the death at Johnstown, Pa., of Major James H. Gageby, of the 12th Infantry, of heart disease. He was stationed at Fort Niobrara, Neb.

Law and Justice.

The late Lord Chief Justice of England used to tell his friends this anecdote at his own expense:

Driving in his coupe toward his court one morning, an accident happened to it at Grosvenor Square. Fearing he would be belated, he called a nearby cab from the street rank, and bade the Jehu drive him as rapidly as possible to the Courts of Justice.

"And where be they?"

"What, a London cabby, and don't know where the law courts are at Old Temple Bar?"

"Oh, the law courts, is it? But you said courts of justice."

On his way to his judicial seat the Chief Justice saw at once that a line was drawn in the common mind between law and justice. As if, for instance, while one was dispensed, the other was dispensed with.

When Harvard Was Young.

Our great colleges all had small beginnings, and some of them had pretty hard beginnings, as the following ancient reminiscence of our first university shows:

At first it was truly a school only and was taught by one Nathaniel Eaton, a scholar of most disreputable memory, who was discharged by the general court for "cruel and barbarous beating of Mr. Nathaniel Briscoe and for other neglecting and misusing of his scholars," a sentence of the most righteous nature.

This brutal man had a rule that "he would not give over correcting until he had subdued the party to his will," and in this exercise he used, on one occasion at least, as Governor Winthrop tells us, "a cudgel which was a walnut tree plant, big enough to have killed a horse, and a yard in length."

But this was not all, for, although the pupils paid him well for their "diet," it was ordinarily nothing but porridge and pudding, "and that very homely," and his wife denied them butter and cheese and beer "betwixt meals."

She also forced the young men to make their beds at times.

Altogether the poor fellows had a hard time dwelling with Master and Mistress Eaton.—New York Dispatch.

He Pardoned the Deception.

"Then you have deceived me!"

"Yes, Alfred."

"And you married me knowing that you were rich!"

"Yes, Alfred."

She now concealed nothing, nothing of the terrible action whereby she had led him to believe her poor.

"Can you forgive me, Alfred?"

With pleading, contrite eyes she searched in his face the evidence of the struggle that waged in his bosom.

"Yes," he answered at last. "We will [illegible] [illegible]

MAINE MELANGE.

Two Men Escape from Franklin County Jail.

Serious Accident in Quarry at Kennebunkport.

Cumberland.

A heavy thunder shower occurred at 11 o'clock Saturday at Portland. Lightning struck the big chimney of the Casco Tanning Company at the foot of Green street, badly damaging it.

It will cost the New England fair management $3000 to exhibit Tom Eck's bicycle racing combination at Rigby. The party, which will include Johnson, McDonald, Weinig, two English and three French racing men, will leave France August 1, and come directly to Portland. The programme will be as follows: August 18, half-mile race, one mile against time by Johnson, paced on a quint; August 19, mile race in heats and half-mile against time by Johnson; August 20, half-mile race, a five-mile race and two miles against time by Johnson, paced by a quint and a triplet.

A party of about 30 Boston wheelmen arrived at Portland on the boat early Sunday morning to pass the day as guests of a company of Portland cyclists, of whom Frank W. Wardwell, of Maine Outings, was the central figure. The party took breakfast in the Congress Square Hotel, then rode over the shore road to Richmond's Island, where a clambake was partaken of at noon. A sail in the bay, a visit to Willard and a return ride to the city completed the day's programme.

Hancock.

Yacht Gloriana from Boston arrived at Bar Harbor Saturday, J. M. Laselle, owner, with a party on board. She sailed for Marblehead Sunday.

Kennebec.

At an early hour Saturday morning some one entered the house of Mrs. Brooke at Winthrop, evidently for the purpose of robbery, by a window. The inmates were aroused, frightening the miscreants away. Later an attempt was made to enter the house of Mrs. Kempton near by.

Franklin.

Fred Lake, of Boston, and Charles Hewey, of Avon, escaped from the county jail at Farmington Saturday afternoon, by sawing off the iron bars in the grate window of the corridor. Lake was awaiting trial on charge of horse stealing. This is the second time he has escaped from this jail. He was captured in Lynn, Mass., and returned here only about two months ago after being at liberty a year. He is a slippery criminal. Hewey was awaiting the grand jury on charge of assault on his nine years old step-daughter. Lake was returned to jail. He was captured near East Wilton by Cyrus N. Blanchard and Bert Clark. He was on his way to East Dixfield. Lake ran for his life but stubbed his toe and fell, when Clark sprang upon and secured him.

Oxford.

A tenement house owned by A. S. Bean at North Bethel was burned Saturday. Loss $1,000; insured. Sparks set fire to the farm buildings of G. B. Lowell a third of a mile away, burning the building and tools. The loss is $1,200; insured. Only by hard work was the village saved.

Sagadahoc.

N. C. Johnson, H. E. Boardman, E. D. Bradstreet and W. S. Johnson, all of Meriden, Ct., wheeled from that city to Bath, Me. They stopped over at Old Orchard.

York.

Wilfred Senior, a Sanford racing man, has purchased a quad and it will be used as a pacer on the new Sanford bicycle track.

Tom Kelly, of New Haven, Conn., and Peter Foley, of Portland, were badly injured at Kennebunkport Saturday by a premature explosion. Kelly lost both eyes and one hand.

The Keeley Institute, Deering, Maine, promotes practical temperance by curing the nervous weakness on which indulgence in alcohol, morphine, tobacco, etc., depends. Incidental to the Keeley Treatment, many diseases and nervous troubles caused by these addictions are cured and the general condition is thoroughly built up, strengthened and invigorated. jn12

FEED THE NERVES.
Upon pure, rich blood and you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are improperly and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is thus the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate. [illegible]

CITY AND VICINITY.

The first annual tournament of the Ellsworth tennis club will be held at the court of the club Wednesday, July 15.

Two years ago the stone business was the principal industry of Milbridge but nothing is being done in the quarries this season.

Considerable interest in tennis is being developed at Frankfort. A club of about a dozen members has been organized and a court built.

Frank Wellington, who won the bicycle race at Caribou last Friday, making the half mile in 1.10, has received a challenge from J. Parks, of Fort Fairfield, who claims to be champion of Maine. The race will probably come off the first week in August.

Douglass Anderson, foreman of one of the Maine Central section crews, is ill at his home at Ellsworth, threatened with lockjaw. About a week ago Anderson had a toe amputated, Sunday he walked several miles on the railroad to inspect the condition of the line. He returned in an excited, nervous state and this, with the injury to the foot from which the toe had been cut, produced a slight attack of lockjaw.

JULY BULLETIN.

Fair Number Will Soon be Out.

The bulletin of the State Board of Agriculture for July, known as the fair number, will soon be out. It contains in part as follows:

We wish to call our readers' attention to the remarks of our correspondents, as arranged by counties. They are interesting and suggestive. While there are some differences of opinion on some minor details relating to the management of fairs, they all unite in urging that fairs should be made, first of all, educational, and that other considerations, however necessary they may be, shall be made secondary. They also urge the necessity of maintaining a high moral tone amongst the amusements and favor the full enforcement of the law prohibiting gambling.

In reply to the questions on hay crop, pastures, grains, fruits, etc., the State returns are as follows:

There were 167 replies. Condition of hay crop, 70 per cent; condition of pastures, 81 per cent; amount of soiling crops, 119 per cent; condition of oats, 98 per cent; mixed grain, 96 per cent; barley, 89 per cent; rye, 85 per cent; sweet corn, 82 per cent; yellow corn, 95 per cent; potatoes, 93 per cent; apples, 103 per cent; plums, 87 per cent; strawberries, 82 per cent; raspberries, 67 per cent; blackberries, 99 per cent; other small fruits, 86 per cent.

Reviewing these conditions from last month, we find some material changes. The hay crop remains about as indicated at that time, but if moist weather prevails up to time of cutting, the percentage may be increased. Grain is more promising, and present indications point to a full crop. The fruit prospect is not as flattering, and it becomes all fruit growers to look carefully after their orchards, that they may get the largest possible yield. Corn and potatoes are both exceptionally low, and unless the latter part of the season is very favorable, must be light. Pastures are being improved in nearly every section, and while they are not depended upon as much as formerly, are still in many places capable of carrying an increased amount of stock. These two facts, taken into account, would appear to show that more animals are carried about the home pastures than formerly.

From present indications, we are led to the belief that we may with safety look for better prices for the products of the farm, and we believe it is but the part of wisdom, at this time, to increase the output of our farms along our chosen lines, as far as we consistently can with the capital and labor at our command.

The following is a summary of the replies from this vicinity.

Aroostook County.

Twelve replies: Condition of the hay crop, 50 per cent; pastures, 66 per cent; amount of soiling crops, 175 per cent; condition of oats, 106 per cent; mixed grain, 101 per cent; barley, 87 per cent; rye, 80 per cent; sweet corn, 95 per cent; yellow corn, 82 per cent; potatoes, 84 per cent; apples, 93 per cent; plums, 81 per cent; strawberries, 62 per cent; raspberries, 105 per cent; blackberries, 120 per cent; other small fruits, 103 per cent.

Hancock County.

Number of replies, ten. Condition of the hay crop, 71 per cent; condition of pastures, 82 per cent; amount of soiling crops, 107 per cent; condition of oats, 98 per cent; mixed grain 100 per cent; barley, 94 per cent; sweet corn, 78 per cent; yellow corn, 85 per cent; potatoes, 86 per cent; apples, 107 per cent; plums, 98 per cent; strawberries, 77 per cent; rasberries, 63 per cent; blackberries, 106 per cent; other small fruits, 100 per cent.

School Fund and Mill Tax.

The State treasurer has completed the apportionment of the school fund and mill tax for the year 1896, among the several cities and towns and plantations.

The total amount apportioned is $509,933.05. The total number of scholars is 209,491, giving each scholar about $2.434.

The amount apportioned in 1895 was $518,185.70, among 205,528 scholars, giving to each $2.465.

The decrease in the amount for apportionment is caused by the decrease in the amount of tax received from savings banks. The distribution among the several counties is as follows:

Counties.	Scholars.	Amounts.
Androscoggin	16,599	$40,404 50
Aroostook	22,426	54,583 17

"Democracy's Saint Helena."

The nomination of a comparatively unknown candidate for President as the result of the furore over the fervid delivery of a stump speech, recalls the fact that during Mr. Bryan's short service in Congress before his district changed over to give some five thousand Republican majority in 1891, he was accustomed to indulge in very florid rhetoric. On the occasion of the repeal of the silver purchase act he was more than usually melodramatic, especially in relating an alleged story about Napoleon and a drummer-boy. A few days later Mr. Boutelle made a speech in the same debate, August 23, 1893, in which he showed that the Republican party alone, could be depended upon to maintain the public credit, and concluded by disposing of Mr. Bryan's drummer-boy as reported in the Congressional Record as follows:

The gentleman from Nebraska a few days ago, related in a very dramatic manner an entertaining, but mythical story, in which Napoleon, at the battle of Marengo, believing his army defeated, ordered a drummer boy to beat a "retreat." The stripling replied that he had never learned how to beat a "retreat," but said he could beat a soul-stirring "charge," and reminded his great chief of the charges he had beat at Lodi, at Wagram, etc, and begged permission "Oh, sire, let me beat one more charge!" which was granted, and the battle won. The gentleman then applied the story to his Democratic President, whom he believed to be retreating from the Democratic battle-ground, and begged him, in the name of the victories of the past, to order one more grand "charge" under the banner of free silver and free trade.

Mr. Speaker, the President, as well as the rest of his countrymen, has witnessed an "object lesson" of the effects of the mere apprehension of a general assault upon the tariff system.

You can not raise the mailed hands of legislation in deadly threats against every productive industry of a great nation without inviting business calamity. The calamity has come. It is at our doors; and I tell you, my young friend from Nebraska [addressing Mr. Bryan], that if you go to your "Napoleon of politics" now, and undertake to urge him, like your "drummer boy of Marengo," to let you beat just "one more charge;" when you remind him how you beat "such a charge" for free wool that sent all the American sheep scampering to the slaughter houses and wool down to 10 cents a pound, and beseech him to "let me beat one more" [laughter], when you remind him, "Sire, we did beat such a charge against the wool manufacturers, and see how their factories are toppling all over the land! Oh, sire, we did beat such a charge against the cotton manufacturers, and look how they are closing their doors and turning their army of unemployed workmen out into the streets! (Laughter). Oh, sire, we did beat such a charge against the gold standard and monometallism, in favor of free and unlimited coinage of short-weight silver dollars, and look how our securities have come flocking home for redemption, how the banks of New York and all over the country have been brought to the verge of ruin, and idle workmen are being fed in the soup houses. Oh, sire, let us beat one more charge!" (Applause and laughter on the Republican side.)

Mr. Speaker, he won't do it. I tell you, my young friend, that when your quondam chieftain comes back from Gray Gables, while he may applaud, as we all did, the beautiful imagery and fervid eloquence of your splendid speech, brilliant in all except the soundness of its premises and the logic of its conclusion [laughter], he will place his hand on your head and say, "My young friend, that was all very well before election, but we won't have any more charges beat just now." [Laughter and applause]. You just go to work and learn how to beat a first-class retreat. That is what we shall most stand in need of." For I assure my friend from Nebraska that the "man of destiny" has already observed the omens of the times, and he will whisper in your ear that Marengo is a long way behind, that the victory of 1892 was nothing but a spasmodic return from Elba, that amid the uprising of the allied industries and interests of a deceived people he already hears the ground rumblings of the Waterloo of 1894 (applause on the Republican side), and against the bright sunburst of Republican restoration in 1896 he sees, grimly looming, Democracy's St. Helena! [Loud and continued applause on the Republican side.]

DO PLANTS FEEL?

Observations and Experiences of a Woman Who Believes They Do.

"It seems impossible to me how people can believe that plants do not feel," said a woman whose hobby is her garden. "They not only feel, but they have their moods and apparent reasoning powers. Take roses, for instance. They are wonderfully intelligent, if the term may be used. They actually sulk if they find what they do not wish to cling to in their path and refuse to grow and then rush past it as if they had made up their minds to it and wished to have it over.

"I watched a creeper which had grown to a certain height on a string which was attached to the side of a shingled house with a nail. When the vine reached the side of the house it hesitated several days, the branches threw themselves back and appeared to protest and swayed helplessly in the wind. Finally a younger branch arrived on the scene of action. It actually appeared to grasp the situation and after a day or two of apparent hesitation it completely changed its tactics, and in place of the tendrils that had clung to the cords it threw out suckers like the foot of a fly and made a new start upward. The funny part of it was that the others literally followed its example, although apparently they did not have the sense to think of the plan themselves, all but one or two which could not bring themselves to change their habits and so remained stunted forever.

"I had another experience with a vine last year that was curious. It was a German ivy, and when I planted it in a hanging basket in the veranda it was to all appearance a healthy, happy little plant with no morbid tendencies whatever. But it suddenly developed in the strongest way. It shot out one, and only one, long green, thick, creepy stem without a single leaf and grew along the rafters of the veranda in and out like a horrid green headless worm. It grew so fast that it seemed uncanny, and you will laugh to hear that I became actually nervous about it. When it had attained the extraordinary growth of 12 or more feet, I resolved to destroy it, and when I cut off the thick succulent stem and threw the long, curious development writhing upon the floor I felt as if I had killed a monster. What the life was in that creature I cannot tell, but it was certainly not natural."—New York Tribune.

MINUS THE PISTOL.

Getting Over a Difficulty In a Country Town Theatrical Performance.

A company of amateurs were playing a thrilling melodrama in a country town in the south of England. The feelings of the audience were wrought up to the highest pitch of excitement by the villain's deeds of evil. At last, the wicked man was tracked to his den and cornered by the hero, whose duty it was to murder him. The two men faced each other and glared as stage enemies generally do.

"Now, Jack Jeffries, you are at my mercy," cried the hero.

He put his hand to his pocket—horrors, the pistol was not there! The hero had not armed himself. The villain waited to be shot, and the hero hesitated. Then a bright thought struck the hero. He took the audience into his confidence. "I've got him at my mercy now," said the hero in a stage whisper; "I'll go and get a pistol and shoot the rogue dead."

He bolted off the stage to search for the murderous weapon, leaving the doomed villain to await his return. Moments passed, villain and audience grew impatient, but the hero did not come to put the villain out of his misery. The pistol could not be found among the stage properties either. The villain, in despair, thought he, too, would take the audience into his confidence.

"I know what that man's after. I'll go and help him to find that pistol."

A roar of laughter followed the villain as he left the stage, which was resumed when the two men returned with the missing pistol, and the villain was shot according to the book.—London Tit-Bits.

THREE CLASSES OF MEN

is the title of a neat illustrated volume I have just issued for men. It gives in plain language the effects following youthful indiscretions and later excesses as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Drains and Losses, Varicocele, Atrophy or undevelopment; and points out an easy and sure treatment and cure at home without Drugs or Medicines. It also explains the cause and cure of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Kidney Complaints, etc., without medicine. It is in fact a truthful resume of my thirty years wonderful success in the curing of these cases by Electric self-treatment, and every young, middle-aged or old man suffering the slightest weakness should read it and know just where he stands. The driver did not stop but Special Patrolman J S Crowley brought him to a standstill after a long run.

Messrs George A Warburton and Robert McCastellin, of New York, and Master Warburton were in the city Monday on their return to New York from a fishing trip at Katahdin Iron Works. Messrs Warburton and McCastillin are prominent workers in the Railroad Y M C A in New York While at the Iron Works, Master Warburton went hunting with Nelson Welch, a well known guide and the latter shot a young bear weighing 125 pounds

Mr Joseph G Kimball, chief station engineer for the Public Works Company, left on the Boston steamer Monday for Boston in the interests of the Public Works Co, to look at several working models of engines The Public Works Company has decided that in order to furnish continuous power for both street railways and the electric system there must be other power besides the river It has been decided that when the water power is useless a steam engine of 900 horse power would be the thing and models representing such capacity Mr Kimball will look at while away.

The breaking of ground for the church at Good Will Farm took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock with appropriate exercises The congregation sang "At the Cross" The 37th Psalm was read by Franklin D Elmer of the University of Chicago, and prayer was offered by Rev. G. W Hinckley. The congregation sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Mr. Hinckley made a brief address, in which he emphasized the relation between home, school and church. He announced that the donor of the church was present and that she had chosen the one who should turn the first turf. The turf was then cut, and Supervisor Hinckley's daughter Faith, 5 years old, took the spade and completed the work of turf turning It is expected that work on the church will go forward rapidly. A. G Bowie and R. L. Proctor, of Waterville, have signed the contract to build the church. The contract price is understood to be $13,000.

The crew of the U. S. S. Columbia did a very neat job at the fire at Clark's store in Castine Saturday morning and by their well directed efforts saved very much damage. The first alarm of the fire was sounded from the warship which lay a short distance off in the harbor and before a very large crowd had collected a boat load of gallant and well trained tars were on shore ready to help extinguish the blaze. The local fire department got a stream on the fire and so the sailors, directed by an officer, turned their attention to getting the goods out of the store, and the way they rushed them out was a caution, they forming lines and passing the goods along so rapidly that it was but a short time before the merchandise was all out. REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES.

Ward Primary System Adopted by the City Committee.

Minority Threaten to Bolt and Call a General Caucus.

A regularly called meeting of the Republican City Committee was held Monday evening for the purpose of calling the caucus to select candidates for representatives to the Legislature. As is already known the Republicans of Bangor have been signing a memorial to the committee asking for a change from the general caucus to primaries. The reason for this is that Bangor has outgrown the general caucus system which as was the case last spring results in an unwieldy gathering in which it is impossible to distinguish Democrats from Republicans, to say nothing of the discomfort of the individual voter in such a crowd This memorial, signed by 612 of the Republican voters of Bangor, was laid before the committee at its meeting by Chairman Stetson and a lively discussion ensued upon the same.

Mr. Porter, as our reporter was informed, the meeting not being open to the public, objected to the change He took the ground that the committee had no legal right to inaugurate the new departure and in support of his statement read a letter from Hon. F O Beal, who argued the case at some length Mr. Mason took similar ground, while Mr Palmer and Mr Sweet spoke in favor of the change as being in the interest of a fair expression of Republican sentiment as emphasized by the generally signed memorial before the committee

Chairman Stetson said he had taken legal advice in the matter and was informed that the committee had full legal authority in determining the method as well as the time of holding caucuses.

Mr Palmer presented the new form of call as published this morning and moved its adoption by the committee

Mr. Porter moved to refer the matter to a general caucus to be called by the committee

A vote was taken on the amendment, which was lost, yeas, Messrs Porter, Mason and Crowley, nays, Messrs Palmer, Sweet, Bean and Chairman Stetson

The call for ward primaries was then adopted, the four last named members voting for it, while the other three refrained from voting The chairman then affixed his signature but when it came to the signature of the secretary, Mr. Mason, he declined to sign it As the secretary is of course bound to record the action and will of a majority of the committee, upon the refusal of Mr Mason to sign the call, the committee elected Mr Palmer secretary pro tem.

The minority of the committee prepared a call for a general caucus, signed by the secretary This call was presented to THE WHIG, which had already received the duly signed and legal call adopted by the majority of the committee, and, of course, could not recognize any other action than that of the legally constituted majority of the committee elected by the Republicans of Bangor to call the caucuses of said party.

The new system will undoubtedly prove very popular with the voters after a fair trial and we commend the call to the careful attention of our readers

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT
Maine Central Track Undermined and Pullman Car Nearly Tipped Over

The train for Bar Harbor which leaves this city at 4 45 P M, had a little difficulty near the Hancock street Y yesterday which nearly resulted in overturning the Pullman car Marie. There had been a heavy shower just before the train left and the water, which came down in sheets, was unable to run off through the Hancock street sewer as it was apparently stopped up in some part so it ran over the bank upon the railroad tracks, undermining the branch track and the main track somewhat

The train backs up at this point to reach the Y, then goes ahead to cross the railroad bridge The Pullman car first struck the undermined rails which sunk down towards the river The Pullman settled to one side, but not quite enough to fall over The train was immediately stopped, without any damage having been done There were several passengers in the car and they were naturally somewhat startled but nobody was injured in the least

The Pullman was left where it stopped and a crew of men repaired the track, making it level again The main track was also undermined by the water but it was discovered in time to repair with only a brief delay to the trains

Base Ball Briefs

Portland Press Pitcher Wheeler, of Bangor, is rusticating in Lewiston for no particular reason, so far as he knows

If this is so, it is news to the Bangor directors He may have been allowed to leave the team as it was not intended to put him in against the Pawtuckets who have always batted him hard

The Bangors play again in Pawtucket to-day and it is Maine's turn to pitch. On Wednesday the Bangors begin a two weeks' series of home games, starting in with Brockton

Bangor people were somewhat chagrined at Lewiston, the tailenders, taking two games from Bangor on the home grounds but Lewiston did the same trick to the champion Fall Rivers.

Horner, who has been released by Bangor, is in the city to take his family back to Boston. He speaks highly of Sheehan, Bangor's new third baseman. Horner batted in practice before Saturday's game at Brockton to Sheehan and says that Sheehan scooped in the easy ones, the hot ones and many balls purposely batted almost out of his reach. He says that Sheehan should have been credited with 3 hits instead of 2 and that he made another which he thought was a sure home run but that Brockton's fielder made a phenomenal catch and spoiled it.

The third visit of the Maine clubs to Massachusetts and Rhode Island ends today.

Bangor has three games postponed in Fall River. According to the constitution, both clubs must consent to their being played off

President Murnane and Secretary Morse will take the Bangor boat from Boston next Saturday for a trip on the Maine circuit to see the fur fly. They will be in Bangor Monday, Augusta Tuesday, Lewiston Wednesday and Portland Thursday.

The ball game between the professional and business men at Maplewood yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the Bangor General Hospital was called in the third inning owing to the thunder shower. The score went back to the second inning, 12 to 3 in favor of the business men. OBITUARY.

William H S Lawrence

In the death of William H S Lawrence, which occurred about five o'clock yesterday morning, the business and social circles of Bangor meet with a great loss. Mr Lawrence who was the son of the late William J and Elizabeth (Low) Lawrence was a descendant of one of the oldest and most noted families of England and New England, being closely connected with the late Abbott and Amos Lawrence, of Boston, and a lineal descendant of Robert Lawrence, or "Sir Robert of Ashton Hall," as he was knighted by Richard Coeur de Lion, who was born A D 1150

The subject of this sketch was born in this city September 20, 1838, and was consequently almost 58 years of age at the time of his death He obtained his education in our city schools, learned the machinists' trade at the Muzzy Iron Works at which he worked until the attack on Fort Sumter and the call of President Lincoln for troops aroused the country to arms The attack upon Fort Sumter being made on the 12th of April, 1861, and the call for 75,000 men by President Lincoln being made immediately afterward a company of ex firemen of this city known as the "Ex-Tiger and Armory Associates," held a meeting on the 20th at one day's notice and volunteered their services, which were accepted, they becoming Company G, of the Second Maine Regiment

This was the first organized company or association to tender its services to the government in this State and Mr Lawrence was made its Orderly Sergeant, in which capacity he served most acceptably until the battle of the first Bull Run, when he received injuries which crippled him for life After his discharge from the army he served with great acceptance with Adjutant General Hodsdon, at Augusta, and with Provost Marshal Low at Bangor Later he entered the government service as Money Order Clerk and Cashier in the Post Office under Col Fuller and afterwards was in the same capacity under Col Farnham for sixteen years Ten years ago he was elected cashier of the Kenduskeag National Bank, where he had served most acceptably up to the time of his death

Mr Lawrence was married December 30, 1870, to Miss Mary J McLaughlin, and by her had one son, Percy Farnham His wife died October 20, 1886 in California, where she had gone for the benefit of her health, and his son who was a brilliant student of the Boston Institute of Technology, died about seven months ago The death of his son gave him a shock from which he never recovered, and this spring the directors of the bank gave him a vacation in which he visited Europe in company with Mr Elton W Ware, with the hope of a restoration of his health It was of no use, however, as he was a victim of that terrible disease, Bright's disease of the kidneys, and he has constantly failed until his death yesterday morning.

Mr. Lawrence was a prominent Mason, for nearly forty years a member of Rising Virtue Lodge, of which he was a Past Master and for many years Secretary and Treasurer and also a member of the Chapter, Council and St John's Commandery and also a greatly esteemed member of the Molita Club, He was a member of Hannibal Hamlin Post, G. A. R. He leaves one sister, Miss Alice M Lawrence, for many years a faithful and valuable teacher in our city schools and a nephew and niece, Conductor George Garman, of the B & A Railroad, and Mrs Hattie Thurston to mourn their great loss

The funeral, under the direction of the Masonic fraternity, will take place from the residence of Mrs Nehemiah Kittredge on Essex street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock

Castine Startled

The cruiser Columbia bade a noisy farewell to Castine at the departure Saturday morning and one that rather startled the inhabitants of the quiet old town The Columbia carries a big syren whistle but at her arrival and during her stay her officers carefully abstained from using it, evidently saving its unearthly music for the parting flourish Few people, if any, noticed the failure to use it, a number indeed remarking that the big craft had a small whistle for her size, (one of the ordinary variety having been used in saluting) But Saturday morning they changed their opinion People do not rise very early in Castine as a rule and about 3 o'clock found them in repose as usual The Columbia was getting ready to leave and at about this hour, when all was even quieter than at midnight, some one let on a big head of steam into the syren and it bellowed forth its unearthly sounds, first way down to a basso profundo and then running up to a shriek that must have awakened the echoes way down to Martinicus It waked the good people of Castine at least and windows began to fly up and there were hurried and breathless inquiries as to the source of the fearful and wonderful racket that was going on And the fellow that was running the syren kept it running up and down the scale until he waked up everyone within range and then we don't doubt but what he laughed Of course many Castine people had heard a syren before but many of them hadn't and perhaps some of them now don't know what spoiled their morning nap Saturday At least one man was heard inquiring Sunday afternoon "what got loose" Saturday morning

THE DESPISED CENT
San Francisco Has Always Rejected It, but Is Now Relenting.

Dr Stebbins of San Francisco who is counted California's brainiest preacher, spoke for local civilization in an odd way on a recent Sunday, when he was delivering a sermon on the 33 years of his occupancy of the pulpit that was once Starr King's Our vital need, according to the doctor, is to bid farewell to 1849 and accommodate ourselves to the spirit of 1895. Sober prudence, he thinks, is better than careless lavishness He would welcome the domestication of the penny because the prevalence of that small coin would impart thought for the little things, due attention of which tends to make life happier and happiness more secure. It is the first time that a San Francisco pulpit has perceived the social and moral significance of the cent, and the sermon has made an impression. It will help toward the acceptance of the penny, which will arrive and stay, as the once equally despised nickel forced itself on us and gave the dime some dignity.

A dozen years ago the nickel was a petty and pride hurting thing Men were ashamed to be seen with it, though women, less sensitive to the accusation of meanness, employed it freely long before it dared show its face in saloons, restaurants and cigar stands. And the women have been accepting the penny at the grocery and dry goods stores for a good while. Men's attempts on a large and conspicuous scale to introduce it have failed. In 1870, when Henry George started The Post, it was a penny paper, and the uniformed newsboys were supplied with pocketfuls of new coppers to make change. The public declined them, though. Eight years ago The Post, under General Sheehan's management, tried it again, with no better luck. Important retail houses have endeavored to spread the penny, but all these artificial efforts have not converted the public, which, through a queer perversion of the idea of what is open handed, [illegible]

AT FAIR ISLESBORO.
The Season has Opened Finely at this Charming Resort—Various Notes of Interest and Doings of the Visitors

[Special Correspondence of Whig and Courier]

ISLESBORO, July 13. The season at this charming summer resort has opened finely and bids fair to be a most successful one. There are a large number of guests at the Islesborough and many cottagers are here to enjoy the cooling breezes that blow in over the bay and there are new arrivals every day.

People are here from all the big cities and from many States and Bangor people are as usual very much in evidence, this being the favorite resort of very many of them The days glide by swiftly with them, whiled away as they are by the many pleasures and the delightful idleness one can indulge in at a summer resort and all here seem to be getting their full measure of enjoyment At the Islesborough the company of permanent guests is a pleasantly congenial one and those who come to pass a few days or weeks join fully with them in the enjoyment of the season Frequent musicales, hops and other social affairs are features of life at the hotel

Every Saturday afternoon the Sedgwick brings down a large party of Bangoreans to enjoy a cool Sabbath here Last Saturday the popular steamer arrived at about 7 o'clock and a warm and delicious supper was awaiting the arrivals at the hotel In the evening the usual Saturday night hop was enjoyed at the hotel and a large number participated

Sunday was a delightful day here, the refreshing breeze that came up the bay from the Atlantic tempering the sun's rays so as to make the weather particularly enjoyable

Sunday evening the customary sacred concert was held at the hotel and consisted of the singing of gospel hymns by the large number of guests assembled, nicely rendered piano solos by Miss Brown and Mr Edward Larsen and a cornet solo by Mr Frank Puck, finely given

Among the new arrivals at the Islesborough during the past few days have been Mr and Mrs James N Chandler, Capt Nathan Hopkins, Mr and Mrs A H Babcock, Mr and Mrs F G Gould and daughter, Mr and Mrs J A Bailey, of Bangor, and Mrs J G Brown and Miss E G Brown, of Boston

The big and handsome schooner yacht Thelma, of the South Boston yacht club, has been in the bay for several days and was here over Sunday. Her owner, E H Lansing, who is rear admiral of the South Boston Yacht Club, is aboard, with his wife and daughter and Capt W A Rudick of Boston The Thelma came down to the Castine celebration and by invitation of her owner was joined at Castine by Mr and Mrs M. H Andrews, of Bangor who have spent a few days aboard of her as guests of Mr Lansing, enjoying the celebration and also some delightful cruising about the bay

The Thelma came to Islesboro Saturday evening, sailing in just ahead of the Sedgwick with most of her canvas spread and made a very pretty sight both for the people on board and those on the steamer The party spent the night at The Islesborough and Sunday forenoon went to Dark Harbor as the guests of Mr Andrews, enjoying a delightful ride down and back

The yacht Windward Vice Commodore Gower, of the South Boston Yacht Club arrived Saturday

Dr Pressey is here in his yacht Mallard and the yacht Jeannette is also in the cove

All the yachting folks attended the hop at the hotel Saturday evening and the sacred concert Sunday evening and greatly enjoyed both

The yachts Thelma and Windward took quite a part in the fireworks display at Castine Thursday evening Both had a large supply of fireworks and were placed near the revenue cutter Levi Woodbury, where they made a fine display

Death of Mrs James H. Flagg

The Paxton, Ill, Record of July 9th contains a notice of the death of Mrs. James H Flagg, at her home in Clarence, Ill, on July 4th Mr. Flagg is the son of Mr Henry Flagg and Mrs. Sarah Olney Flagg, who will be well remembered by Bangor people Neuralgia, complicated with other troubles after an attack of la grippe, was the cause of her death.

The Record says:

Born at Surry, Me, in 1820, Mrs. Flagg—whose maiden name was Jarvis—came of that sturdy stock that moulded the early religious and educational sentiment of the nation. Fifty years ago, in November next, she was joined in matrimony to an ambitious young sea captain, who, seven years her senior, survives her, our most esteemed fellow citizen, J. H. Flagg, Esq.

The adventurous spirit of Mr. Flagg led him via Cape Horn to the Golden Gate in '49, but, returning in a couple of years with his young wife, they journeyed to Buffalo, N. Y. Four years later he removed to Racine, Wis, and from thence in 1859 to Ford county, Ill., settling on his farm four miles south of Kirk's, where for thirty years they experienced all the trials, privations, and joys of the early settler. Leaving the farm in 1889 they removed to Clarence, [illegible] in their old age [illegible]

WHY THE TILEFISH DIED
Professor Libbey Explains a Queer Case at the London Congress.

Professor William E. Libbey of Princeton read at the recent geographical congress in London an important paper on "The Relations of the Gulf Stream and the Labrador Current It was received with marked interest and close attention by the assembled geographers The London Times summarizes one part of the professor's essay as follows

"This subject is of especial concern because of its bearing upon the migrations of schools of fish In 1880 and 1881 a recently discovered fish known as the tilefish had been found in considerable numbers from Cape May to Nantucket and preparations were made to take it upon a commercial scale for the New York and Boston markets But in the spring of 1882 the water became covered with countless millions of this fish in a dead or dying condition and from that time the tilefish disappeared from this area entirely Its disappearance became a sort of biological puzzle The puzzle, however was solved by the application of certain theories which Professor Libbey had arrived at in regard to the currents in those regions

"It was noticed that from 1889 to 1891 the current of the gulf stream had changed its profile considerably at Block Island and off Nantucket Island and had progressed toward the shore This suggested the idea that the tilefish might have followed it once more and in July of 1893 Professor Libbey and the fishery commissioner went out in the schooner Grampus to the area in question and found that the fish were really there They were found all the way from the south of Martha's Vineyard to the Delaware capes The explanation of their disappearance in 1882 was now comparatively simple

"If it was supposed that this area had been flooded by warm water previous to that date it was easy to see that when the warm band receded the first break in its continuity would occur in that extreme part of the band lying between Cape May and Nantucket The fish over this portion of the bottom would in the event of the withdrawal of the warm water be suddenly exposed to a bath of water of a sufficient degree of coldness to benumb them and start them on their way to the surface

"After they had reached a point in the water which marked the limit of their adjustment to its pressure they were found to go the rest of the way to the surface where they arrived in an abnormal condition as their bodies were all puffed up, and in most instances their stomachs protruded from their mouths as the result of the diminution of pressure It was an extremely interesting fact that the dead bodies of the tilefish came to the surface in a long crescentlike curve which followed the line of the edge of the continental plat form between Cape May and Nantucket

The temperature studies of the ocean might therefore be said to have made an interesting contribution to the study of environment

Harper's Weekly
IN 1896.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a journal for the whole country It deals with the events of the world that are important to Americans

In carrying out this policy in 1895 Julian Ralph visited China and Japan, and journeyed through the West, Richard Harding Davis took a trip through the Caribbean Sea, the evolutions of the new navy were described and illustrated by Rufus F Zogbaum, Frederic Remington presented studies of Army and Frontier life, Poultney Bigelow attended the opening of the Kiel Canal

In 1896 like attention will be given to every notable happening The chief events in art, literature and music and the drama will be artistically presented W D Howells, in the new department, Life and Letters, will discuss in his interesting way books and the social questions of the time. E S. Martin's sprightly gossip of the Busy World will be continued. The progress of the Transportation Commission around the World will be followed, and Caspar W Whitney will conduct the department of Amateur Sport.

In 1896 will occur a Presidential election In its editorials and through its political cartoons the WEEKLY will continue to be an independent advocate of good government and sound money.

In fiction the WEEKLY will be especially strong. It will publish the only novel of the year by W. D. Howells, and a stirring serial of a Scotch feud, by S. R. Crockett. The short stories selected are of unusual excellence and interest In every respect HARPER'S WEEKLY will maintain its leading place in the illustrated journals of the world.

The Volumes of the WEEKLY begin with the first Number for January of each year When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.
